New County Website for Recycling

March 2, 2009 – Henderson County, NC: Henderson County residents who have questions about recycling and solid waste issues can find answers at the revamped and expanded webpage for Henderson County’s Solid Waste Division, www.hendersoncountync.org/solidwaste. Specific recycling information can be found as well as existing fees, hours of operation and disposal information for electronics and special wastes.

Local recyclers will be especially interested in the expanded information about recycling. Recycling options based on specific location in the county are listed, there are downloadable guides to what is recyclable, there is a frequently asked questions page, and a list of links to other recycling and waste management websites.

“The new page is much more user friendly,” says Adrienne Outcalt, Sustainability Coordinator for Henderson County. “I think it does a lot more to address customer questions and we will be expanding on it in the coming months as our program grows.”
